Fox's Four Funniest Families: 'The Simpsons,' 'Bless the Harts,' 'Bob's Burgers' and 'Family Guy' air Christmas Specials

By Breanna Henry
TV Media

Cuddle up for a festive, fun-filled night on Fox, when the four funniest animated families on television celebrate the holidays with new Christmas specials, airing Sunday, Dec. 15. The festive episode of "The Simpsons" (titled "Bobby, It's Cold Outside") is the show's 20th Christmas special, while "Bless the Harts" is celebrating its first (titled "Miracle on Culpepper Slims Boulevard"). Add to that a "Bob's Burgers" special ("Have Yourself a Maily Linda Christmas") and one from "Family Guy" ("Christmas is Coming"), and you've got a full night of animated fun.

"The Simpsons" is known for its celebrity guest voices (many celebs lend their own voices to a storyline that's making fun of them). A special episode is the perfect time to show off how many celebs still love this show, and "Bobby, It's Cold Outside" goes all out. "NCIS: New Orleans" star Scott Bakula and former Microsoft CEO-turned-LA Clippers owner Steve Ballmer both lend their voices to the episode, which also features the return of the most notorious Simpsons villain: "Frasier" star Kelsey Grammer as Sideshow Bob.

It seems some evil-doer is traipsing around Springfield stealing Christmas packages off of people's doorsteps (a timely subject), and this no-goodnik must be tracked down if there is to be any hope of saving Christmas. In completely unrelated news, this year's Springfield Mall Santa is none other than famed actor, professor, scientist, former mayor and convicted murderer Robert Underdunk Terwilliger Jr. PhD — more commonly known as Sideshow Bob. The episode title riffs on the song "Baby, It's Cold Outside," which was written by a man named Frank Loesser in 1944 to sing with his wife at parties. Despite never mentioning anything holiday-related, the 75-year-old tune has been intrinsically linked to Christmas.

"Bless the Harts" is the baby of Fox's Animation Domination time block. The show's first Christmas special is only its ninth episode overall, and having to follow a series with 672 episodes (and a movie) under its belt might seem difficult if it weren't for how much heart "Bless the Harts" has shown throughout its freshman season, particularly in the way it has chosen to avoid tropes associated with low-income families, a category that the Harts fall into.

Rather than having a deadbeat, alcoholic (or worse) boyfriend, Jenny (voiced by Kristen Wiig of "Saturday Night Live" fame) has Wayne (Ike Barinholtz, "The Mindy Project"), who certainly won't be winning any awards for book smarts, but who wants nothing more than to care for her and her family. In "Miracle on Culpepper Slims Boulevard," the show's creator, Emily Spivey, voices Louise, Jenny's boss at the restaurant. Louise invites the Hart family to her annual Christmas party, but after seeing the extravagance of Louise's home, Jenny begins to feel insecure about the kind of holiday she is able to provide for her own family, and her mother, Betty (Maya Rudolph, "The Good Place"), tries to focus on how she can stick to a budget but also "win" at Christmas gift-giving.

It's hard to believe "Bob's Burgers" is already in its 10th season (with a movie set to premiere next year), especially since the writers have been able to keep each episode as fresh and funny as the first. In "Have Yourself A Maily Linda Christmas," the Belcher matriarch, Linda (voiced by comedian John Roberts, who based his performance on his own mother), wants some extra spending money for the holidays, so she gets a temp job at a post office. However, Linda discovers an undelivered package and ends up going a little off-book to ensure it reaches its intended destination.

While mom is out saving the day, Bob (H. Jon Benjamin, "Archer") and Tina (Dan Mintz, "Adventure Time") end up stuck at home with her difficult parents. The younger kids, Gene (Eugene Mirman, who also voices a main character in "Archer") and Louise (Kristen Schaal, "The Last Man on Earth"), are scrambling at the last minute to find the perfect gift for their eccentric older sister. Megan Mullally ("Will and Grace") returns as Linda's neurotic sister Gayle, and Tim Meadows ("Schooled") is back as reluctant mailman Mike Wobbles.

Fox has been most secretive about the plot of the new "Family Guy" holiday special, "Christmas is Coming." All we know so far is that Meg (Mila Kunis, "The Spy Who Dumped Me," 2018) is going to take Stewie (series writer and creator Seth MacFarlane, who also voices Peter and Brian) to the mall to meet Santa, which ends up traumatizing poor Stewie so badly that Brian needs to help him process the experience. If you were breathing at any point during the past 10 years, you should recognize the "Game of Thrones" reference in this episode title, a spin on the Stark family slogan "Winter is Coming."

"The Simpsons" signals the beginning of family festivities on Sunday, Dec. 15, on Fox. The slew of animated Christmas specials from "Bless the Harts," "Bob's Burgers" and "Family Guy" are sure to have you and yours heading to bed with a belly full of cheer and a boost in holiday spirit.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

A new poster for the upcoming season of The Bachelor was just released and the slogan for this season is "Expect Turbulence." When they saw, Spirit airlines was like, "Hey! Get your own damn slogan!"

According to a new study, 50% of people don't change their underwear every day. Yeah, HALF. So if you change yours every day, that's great, but odds are the person who sat in your seat last night didn't.

Apple just announced that they're launching their most powerful laptop ever, the new Mac Pro, at a cost of $6,000. Six thousand dollars for something hot to sit on your lap, or as most guys call that, a bachelor party.

Jimmy Kimmel Live

Did you watch the Democrats debate last night? No, nobody did. Joe Biden didn't do himself any favors. ... He referred to Carol Moseley Braun as the "only African American woman elected to the senate," which came as a surprise to Kamala Harris, the female African American senator standing to his left. Well, that's the thing about Joe Biden — he's not afraid to say the wrong thing.

You know, I've been watching the impeachment hearings. They went on for like 12 hours today. I've been watching in the morning at my house. I think it's having an effect on my children. Last night, I asked my daughter if she wanted a bedtime story, and she just yelled, "Read the transcript!"

The Democrats are slowly and methodically building their case against the president, brick by brick. Today, Mexico even offered to pay for the bricks.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

According to sources, President Trump has abandoned plans to increase restrictions on vaping out of fear that it could hurt his re-election chances. Because right now he's polling at 83% among high school dirtbags.

According to a new study, half of men say they would feel comfortable with a woman leading the government. "Just not that woman," they said about every woman.

WHAT'S NEW ON AMAZON PRIME

"The Aeronauts"
There is a tradition in Hollywood of strong acting pairs working together repeatedly — think Meg Ryan and Tom Hanks of "You've Got Mail" (1993), "Sleepless in Seattle" and more, or Emma Stone and Ryan Gosling of "La La Land" (2016), "Crazy, Stupid, Love" (2010) and more. Joining that tradition are British actors Felicity Jones and Eddie Redmayne. After the success of their 2014 film "The Theory of Everything" (which earned them both Academy Award nominations, and a win for Redmayne), they team up once again to star in "The Aeronauts," premiering Friday, Dec. 20. The film depicts the true story of pioneer meteorologist James Glaisher (Redmayne) and balloon pilot Amelia Wren (Jones) as they set off on an 1862 expedition to fly higher than anyone in history in an open balloon, and expand their knowledge of the weather. The scientist and the daredevil seem an unlikely duo, but both have something to prove to the world: Glaisher's colleagues scoff at his theories of weather prediction, and Wren's family doesn't support her flying. Their physical and emotional limits are tested and their mission for answers becomes a fight for survival as the balloon reaches the edge of the atmosphere and they reach for the stars.

"The Wedding Year"
Everyone reaches the point in their life when it seems like everyone they know is getting married. Sarah Hyland ("Modern Family") brings that period to life when "The Wedding Year" premieres Friday, Dec. 20. Hyland stars as Mara, a 27-year-old commitmentphobe who starts to freak out when she has seven weddings to go to in a year, and must take her new boyfriend. Hilarity ensues as she deals with her boyfriend's ex-girlfriend, her bridezilla sister, and a co-worker, who has some very specific ideas about what Mara should say in a toast. Jenna Dewan ("World of Dance"), Anna Camp ("Perfect Harmony"), Matt Shively ("The Real O'Neals") and Tyler James Williams ("Whiskey Cavalier") also star in this deeply relatable comedy.

WHAT'S NEW ON NETFLIX

"The Witcher"
Polish author Andrzej Sapkowski's bestselling book series makes the jump to the small screen when this highly anticipated new series premieres Friday, Dec. 20. The saga has been adapted before, first as the somewhat unsuccessful 2001 film "The Hexer," which became a 13-episode TV series of the same name the following year; then as a far more successful video game, which was first released in 2007, followed by sequels; and finally as a short film released in 2017. Now, Netflix takes its shot at adapting the saga, with Henry Cavill ("Man of Steel," 2013) starring as mutated monster hunter Geralt of Rivia, who struggles to find his place in a world where people tend to be worse than the monsters he faces. The talented cast includes Anya Chalotra ("Sherwood"), newcomer Freya Allan, and My-Anna Buring ("Ripper Street"). The streaming giant is already showing a lot of faith in this series: it's already been picked up for a second season, and between the large, established fan base of the material, and the production value and star power behind the new series, it's safe to say that if you've been missing "Game of Thrones," this series may just fill the void. All nine episodes of the first season of "The Witcher" premiere this Friday.

Henry Cavill stars in "The Witcher"

"Ronny Chieng: Asian Comedian Destroys America!"
On Tuesday, Dec. 20, "The Daily Show's" Ronny Chieng makes his Netflix debut with the premiere of this new comedy special. The Malaysian comedian is bound to make an impression as he pokes fun at politics, speculating on how efficiency in the U.S. would rise with an Asian-American president, and discussing the effects of consumerism. While it is all in the name of comedy, Chieng actually knows what he's talking about: he earned dual degrees in law and commerce from the University of Melbourne in Australia. Don't miss this comedy special full of ideas about how to really make America great again.

WHAT'S NEW ON HULU

"Killing Eve" Season 2
Emmy award winner Jodie Comer ("My Mad Fat Diary") and Golden Globe winner Sandra Oh ("Grey's Anatomy") return to the world of espionage in Season 2 of this critically acclaimed series, premiering Wednesday, Dec. 18. Oh stars as the incredibly intelligent — and incredibly bored — MI5 officer Eve Polastri, whose spy-life fantasies are left unfulfilled by her desk job. Comer stars opposite her as the Russian assassin Villanelle. The two quickly become entangled in an intense game of cat-and-mouse with their relationship becoming more and more complex, resulting in a shocking climax at the end of the first season. Now, Eve and Villanelle continue their convoluted tango of constantly trying to kill and evade each other. The first season is available now on Hulu, and with only eight 45-minute episodes, it's easy to catch up in time for the launch of the eight episodes that make up Season 2.

"MIX: Meisei Story"
Anime and sports come together on Thursday, Dec. 19, when this new Hulu series premieres. The animated show serves as a sequel to the bestselling manga series "Touch," which sold more than 100 million copies. "MIX: Meisei Story" follows the lives of stepbrothers Touma and Suichirou as they play on the Meisei High School baseball team. The brothers train hard in the hopes of helping the team return to nationals and living up to the legacy of their fathers.
